

EQUINE CANADA RIDER LEVEL CLINICS English and Western

A great opportunity to track developing skills as young or beginner riders through to gaining certification as a recognized coach. The rider levels encase three main components of horsemanship: stable management and care, theory of the horse and equipment, and a detailed riding component.

There are workbooks available through the Alberta Equestrian Federation (www.albertaequestrian.com) for the english, western and driving disciplines for very reasonable prices. If you decide to participate in these clinics, you will be required to have your copy of the appropriate books and an AEF membership.

At Sage Hill Stable, the clinic format will consist of approaching all facets of the levels as groups and individuals. These clinics are designed as preparation clinics. They will host the information required for the registered participants. As riders are ready, we can order the tests from the AEF and proceed with testing days on an individual basis. We are very excited to get this program on the road as we've had several students express interest in rider levels and coaching. Depth of knowledge and training within a facility definitely exudes success of its riders!!
